School in need of books for library after limited budget

By George Welch

A CASH-STRAPPED school that says its budgets are so tight it cannot stock its library with books is appealing for donations.

Henry Box School in Witney has received 70 books since registering with the book donation charity website Book Buddy.

The Church Green school is one of at least five other schools across Oxfordshire pleading for contributions due to restricting financial pressures.

Its appeal on the Book Buddy website reads: "We have around 1,200 students and very limited funding.

"There has been a limited budget this year for the library and we are in need of some new and recent books for the students who use the library in their thousands each year."

It added: "YA fiction, EAL bilingual books, graphic novels and up to date non-fiction would be of most use. Thanks to anyone out there who can help with this."

Deputy headteacher Rebecca Goddard said the school is benefiting since signing up to Book Buddy.

She told the Guardian: "So far we have received 70 fiction and non-fiction books to supplement the already wonderful range of books in our library.

"With school budgets coming under continuing pressure, we value this opportunity to extend our range of books to enrich our reading offer to our students.

"We would like to thank Book Buddies for supplying books to our school and would also like to thank the Henry Box School Association for donating £500 to the library.

"Literacy is a key focus at The Henry Box School and we are pleased that so many of our students make excellent use of our library."

Other schools asking for help include Marcham Primary School, near Abingdon and Tackley Primary School, near Bicester. In Oxford, St Christophers, Larkrise and St Michael's primary schools are also requesting donations.

Run by children's author Maz Evans, Book Buddy said 504 schools signed up in February and March, adding: "It continues to be disgraceful that such a scheme needs to exist."

Oxford author Phillip Pullman last year called for a halt to the 'shocking decline' in England's school libraries.

The His Dark Materials star, along with 149 others, wrote to then-Education Secretary Justine Greening, asking her to set up a national service and to safeguard the positions of qualified librarians in schools.

A Department for Education spokesperson said: "School leaders are best placed to decide how to use their funds to meet the needs of their pupils – such as providing school libraries."

Head over heels at role in UK tour

A TALENTED young dance student from Chipping Norton is taking part in a national tour with one of the most celebrated performing arts schools.

Hannah Kemp, 19, is a rising star at Tring Park School for the Performing Arts and will join fellow dancers in taking to the stage at theatres from Manchester to Exeter from this week.

The former Enstone Primary School and Kingham Hill School pupil is a member of the 19-strong cast of the Encore Dance Company who will perform a diverse range of works.

Hannah said studying at the school has been an amazing experience and she has enjoyed working with choreographers as "they encouraged the students to push themselves, be versatile and try out different styles".

Previous stars of Tring Park School include actresses Daisy Ridley and Lily James.

'Regulate social media' as child grooming rises

By Owen Hughes

CHILD grooming cases recorded in the Thames Valley region have quadrupled in the past year.

Thames Valley Police recorded a total of 134 instances of child grooming from April 1 2013 to December 31 2017, with 84 of those offences recorded between April and December last year.

The previous 12 months, Thames Valley recorded just 19 grooming offences, according to Home Office figures.

A new offence of Sexual Communication with a Child came into force in April 2017 and increased the recording of online grooming.

A Thames Valley Police spokesperson said: "In the Thames Valley and nationally we have seen a growing number of cases where children and young people have been targeted by adults through popular apps and social media platforms but we know many incidents still go unreported.

"It is our priority to engage with the public to make sure children and young people are aware of the dangers of online grooming.

"Keeping children safe from harm is all of our responsibility, we rely on information from members of the public to identify crimes and keep victims safe. We are committed to tackling this issue and bringing offenders to justice."

Throughout March the force worked with NSPCC to raise awareness of child abuse as part of its 18 month Hidden Harm campaign to bring unreported abuse related crimes into the spotlight.

NSPCC launched a #WildWestWeb campaign calling on culture secretary Matt Hancock to regulate social media with Facebook and Facebook-owned apps used in more than half of online grooming cases.

Tony Stower, NSPCC head of child safety online, said the number of reports nationally shows "the sheer scale of grooming" taking place online.

He added: "At present our government is only prepared to tackle grooming after the harm has been done, and its forthcoming Internet Safety Strategy has no plans to prevent grooming from happening in the first place.

"Culture secretary Matt Hancock could change this and bring an end to the Wild West Web.

"I urge him to bring in regulation for social networks, backed by an independent regulator with teeth."

Brexit remainers believe leaving can be stopped

CAMPAIGNERS battling Brexit in Oxford held a public panel event on Friday to review the impact of leaving the EU in the region.

Oxford for Europe's event at Oxford Town Hall drew a large audience with contributions from experts on regional Brexit issues affecting the NHS, science and rights.

People whose lives, family and work are put at risk by Brexit also gave testimonies during the event, which was supported by European Movement (UK) Oxford Region and Oxford European Association.

Dr Mike Galsworthy of Scientist for EU said Oxford's regional science-based economy is set to suffer multiple penalties and handicaps if Brexit goes ahead.

Parliamentary adviser and University of Oxford health services expert, Dr Nick Fahy, questioned what he called the "underlying current Brexit-driven immigration policies" which he said are crippling the NHS.

Catherine Bearder MEP spoke about the insecurity felt by millions of UK citizens living in EU countries.

Oxford research associate Dr Ruvi Ziegler said: "Brexit can be stopped if a clear public will is expressed to demand a vote on the terms, with an option to remain."

A march for a People's Vote on Brexit will take place in London on June 23.

Murder trial collapses

A TRIAL into the alleged murder of Christopher Lemonius has collapsed and will be re-started after the jury was discharged.

Six men are charged with murdering the 27-year-old and four others are charged with perverting the course of justice in connection with his death in Blackbird Leys on June 1 last year.

Judge Ian Pringle QC sent home the jury at a hearing at Oxford Crown Court on Monday, saying the trial, which started on April 3, could not continue for legal reasons.

The trial will recommence at a date to be arranged.

Kicked in the head

A MAN in Grove was attacked with a knife and kicked in the head before escaping into a supermarket.

The 23-year-old man was walking between Cane Lane and Saville Way at around 9pm on April 16 when two men demanded to know what was in his bag before swinging an 8ins knife at him.

He fled by running into Co-op.

Police have released an e-fit, above, of a man they would like to talk to.

World Cup stickers with a difference

EVERYONE'S favourite artists are bidding for World Cup glory once more.

Every player from Cristiano Ronaldo to the lesser known Omar Hawsawi from Saudi Arabia will be affectionately - if a bit awkwardly - drawn.

Alex and Sian Pratchett, the self proclaimed Panini Cheapskates, are the East Oxford couple behind the homemade stickers which went viral four years ago.

The Ilffley Road couple began drawing during the 2014 Brazil World Cup as they could not justify the cost of filling the album with official stickers.

They replicated the feat and raised £4,500 for charity by completing the Euro 2016 sticker book - with just 13 minutes to spare.

Alex and Sian will once again draw each one - 680 in total this time - during the 32-day tournament, which starts in Moscow on June 14.

Managing day jobs, a baby and limited artistic talent means it will be difficult for the devoted duo to find the expected 170 hours needed to fill the 2018 Panini album.

It has been estimated this year's sticker book could cost nearly £800 to fill after the cost of a pack of five stickers increased from 50p to 80p.

Visit tinyurl.com/ybvbweu2 to donate to Alex and Sian's chosen charities, including Cancer Research UK and LGBT rights group Stonewall.

NOVICE ballroom dancers wowed guests as they stepped and sashayed their way through Strictly Bicester 2018.

The rookie dancers teamed up with professionals for a double performance which impressed judges and had everyone on their feet.

Seventeen couples practiced their moves for weeks ahead of last month's annual charity fundraiser.

The couples went head-to-head during two shows at The Bicester School, off Queens Avenue, dancing the waltz and jive, before performing a group routine choreographed by themselves.

Each dancer picked a local or national cause to fundraise for at the two-day event and, with sponsorship and ticket sales, £12,500 was raised for good causes.

Judges included Strictly Oxford 2016 winner and deputy lieutenant of Oxfordshire Miranda Markham and Oxford United analyst Dan Bond.

Strictly professional Ben Green and his dance partner Zoe McLernon, right, waltzed their way to the glitterball trophy on Saturday.

Taking the jive title on Sunday were dance pro Lucy Busby and her dance partner Steven Allen, far right.

Organisers also crowned Tim Corton the Star Of Strictly Bicester 2018 for his impressive performance both throughout training and the final shows.

Winners: Zoe McLernon and Ben Green and Lucy Busby and Steven Allen

Ridgeway challenge for father

By Owen Hughes

A WITNEY father is undertaking an epic cycle ride to raise funds for research into a cure for Motor Neurone Disease.

Richard Brailsford will ride the full 87 miles of the Ridgeway to raise money for the UK Motor Neurone Disease Association for 'humane research' into a cure for MND.

Richard's father, Chris, died just nine months after he was diagnosed with MND in 2013; the same disease that Professor Stephen Hawking, Ronnie Corbett and David Niven suffered from.

Richard said: "He went through hell. It tore our hearts out."

"In 2014 I walked more than 50 miles with some wonderful friends in memory of dad."

"When we finished the 28 mile White Peak Walk my mum was there."

"Sadly one year later, despite loving and living life to the full, our mum died, one year and 364 days after dad."

"There is some encouraging research taking place, however until a cure is found, I want to keep pushing in my own small way."

"Whether I raise a pound or more, and even if I provide the pound, I have to keep doing something."

In the five years that have passed since Richard's father died, a cure for the debilitating disease still eludes researchers.

Although there is no cure, medication called Riluzole is available for people with the most common form of MND, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS, or "Lou Gehrig's disease").

Richard added: "When dad retired at 62, there was a short pause where he figured out what he would do next."

"One of his main passions was the grandkids and the rest of the family."

"When dad was diagnosed with MND, it hit him hard, however he battled as defiantly as he could with the support of our wonderful mum, my sister Lorna and many other family and friends."

"The independence and lust for life which made him such a brilliant man also resulted in the difficulty of living with MND."

Denise Davies, head of community fundraising at the MND Association, welcomed Richard's challenge and said money raised funds for research into MND.

Visit bit.ly/2Kid53W to donate.

Boosting rural broadband speeds

WEST Oxfordshire is on course for ultrafast broadband that will futureproof homes and businesses in the area.

Witney MP Robert Courts visited one of the sites in West Oxfordshire where fibre cables are being laid that provide broadband speeds of up to 1Gbps – around 50 times faster than standard broadband.

Rural broadband specialists Gigaclear are laying the foundations to connect more than 10,000 homes and businesses across the district by the end of 2019.

Mr Courts said: "It's exciting to visit a project of this kind and see the progress that has been made to date."

"I fully support initiatives that improve our communities and support local residents and businesses."

Man jailed for stabbing victim in stomach

A LONDONER who stabbed a man in the stomach in Bicester has been jailed for eight years.

Tashan Campbell, pictured, of Essex Close, Waltham Forrest, was given the sentence, with an extended two years on licence, at Oxford Crown Court on Friday.

The 23-year-old stabbed a man in his thirties in Merlin Way in October 2016.

Campbell was convicted of GBH with intent and possession of an offensive weapon by unanimous jury following a trial at the same court in March.

The victim and Campbell were involved in an argument at the former's home at around 1.30am on October 1.

Campbell was asked to leave the house and the argument continued out into the street, where he stabbed the victim and then ran off.

The victim raised the alarm and was taken to hospital. He received a stab wound to the abdomen which required a lengthy stay in hospital.

Campbell was arrested the same day and was charged on February 18, 2017.

Investigating officer, Detective Constable Richard Lewis, of Force CID, said: "Thames Valley Police will not tolerate those who seek to carry out violent crimes and we will investigate them fully and bring them to justice."

Fun for fantasy fans

WINTER came to South Oxfordshire on Saturday as white walkers roamed the corridors of Abingdon and Witney College.

The inaugural Thames Con featured fantasy fans dressed as their favourite heroes and villains from TV and film, including blockbuster series Game of Thrones.

Stormtroopers, Batman and even Pennywise the Clown from Stephen King's IT could be found wandering the campus surrounded by stalls selling memorabilia and artwork.

Actors from Game of Thrones held a Q&A, while Robert Llewellyn and Danny John-Jules revealed there will be a 13th series of sci-fi sitcom Red Dwarf.

Headliner Sir Tony Robinson reunited the cast of his BBC comedy series Maid Marian and Her Merry Men for the first time in more than 25 years.

Adam Morris, who played Robin Hood in the children's show, said: "I haven't seen the rest of the gang really since the mid nineties.

"This weekend is not only great for the fans to meet us in person, it was also a chance for us to catch up with old friends and reminisce about those muddy days back at the hideout in Sherwood Forest."

Creative director Sarah Williamson said: "We are thrilled with how the first Thames Con event has gone, and are bowled over by all the amazing feedback we're getting from those who came."

Delivery driver hurt as vehicle overturns

AN Asda driver made an unexpected delivery when their van overturned during rush hour traffic.

The van was toppled on the A415 near Witney after colliding with another vehicle at around 5pm on Friday.

Fire crews cut one of the occupants free using specialist hydraulic cutting equipment and was taken to hospital.

Emergency services have not revealed details of the other vehicle involved or how seriously the person was injured.

Thames Valley Police are investigating the cause of the collision.

Crew Manager Chris Rowe said: "Crews worked along with ambulance services to release the casualties from the vehicle. We urge drivers to take care in wet weather conditions on the roads."

Gas main works set to affect road for 19 weeks

ROADWORKS scheduled to last for 19 weeks have started on one of the busiest roads in east Oxford.

Southern Gas Networks (SGN) is replacing old gas mains and services under Cowley Road.

The £250,000 project began at the junction with Marsh Road on Monday and temporary traffic lights are in place.

Work will be suspended from June 29 to July 2 for the annual Cowley Carnival to take place.

The project is expected to be finished in September.

Meanwhile, Oxfordshire County Council has confirmed a £650,000 project to repair and improve parts of a major route into the city will start next week.

Work will get under way between Oakthorpe Road and Moreton Road – a stretch that is suffering from a failing road surface – on Tuesday.

This work is expected to take 10 weeks to complete.

Police officer faked injury to sun himself in Majorca

By George Welch

A DISGRACED police officer who feigned injury to holiday in Majorca has been sacked.

Nicholas Corbett, based at Thames Valley Police's Kidlington headquarters, lost his job after his superiors discovered he had lied about why he failed to turn up to work.

He claimed he struggled to ride a bike and could not fly on plane journeys longer than 90 minutes due to a back injury caused by a crash in 2014.

On October 13 last year Mr Corbett failed to make his shift, prompting his inspector to text him asking where he was. Mr Corbett responded saying he was unable to go to work due to his back injury when he was actually sunning it up in Spain.

In a statement, TVP suggested they were tipped off by information on Strava, an app that tracks users' athletic activity via satellite navigation.

The Force did not say specifically how he was caught but did state: "After the holiday, Mr Corbett then deleted his Strava account."

Mr Corbett resigned before last week's hearing, during which it was confirmed his actions amounted to gross misconduct and breached standards of professional behaviour concerning honesty and integrity.

The panel concluded Mr Corbett would have been dismissed had he not resigned. His details will be placed on the College of Policing's Barred List.

Detective Chief Superintendent Chris Ward, head of the professional standards department, said: "I am sure most of TVP would agree that there is no room in this organisation for somebody who behaves as this former officer has."

"Thankfully the vast majority of our staff are hardworking and dedicated. Where we become aware of someone behaving in this way we will be relentless in carrying out a thorough investigation."

Shopkeeper conned by alcohol-selling fraudster

A FRAUDSTER conned an Eynsham shopkeeper out of cash after posing as someone selling alcohol.

Police said the thief approached a business owner in the west Oxfordshire village, claiming he was closing down his own business and was selling surplus alcohol stock.

The victim agreed a sale and handed over the cash. He understood the seller was going outside to collect the stock from a van and bring it in.

Instead he fled with the cash in a black convertible car.

Thames Valley Police have released a CCTV image of a man who could have 'vital information' about the incident which happened on Thursday, April 19 between 3.15pm and 3.30pm.

Officers did not confirm which shop was targeted or how much was stolen.

Contact police on 101 quoting reference number 43180126627 with information.

College engineers new high-tech training hub

By George Welch

OXFORDSHIRE MP Layla Moran was 'blown away' when she officially opened a new state-of-the-art engineering and technology training hub.

Ms Moran, MP for Oxford West and Abingdon, was all smiles when she joined a host of local dignitaries, employers and senior management at the Abingdon and Witney College launch event.

The £4million high-tech Advanced Skills Centre hub, based on the Abingdon campus in Wootton Road, aims to develop the engineering and technology skills of the area.

Guests were treated to interactive activities and displays showcasing the innovative technology at the new centre.

The college also officially received its Beacon Award which it won in November 2017 recognising its teaching and learning.

College Principal Di Batchelor said: "The guests were clearly impressed with not only our fantastic new building, but also the innovative and engaging activities put together by our dedicated teachers and students."

"We consider ourselves very lucky to be able to continue to invest in our

Skills centre: West Oxford and Abingdon MP Layla Moran and Abingdon & Witney College principal Di Batchelor with the official opening plaque and left, Ms Moran and fellow guests enjoy challenging one of the robots in the engineering workshop facilities and hopefully the Beacon Award is one element shining a light on our hard-working teams and their successes."

Completed in January, the new engineering technology site was funded through the 2014 Oxfordshire Growth Deal.

House raided in crackdown

ARMED police raided a Wantage home as part of an ongoing crackdown on drugs across the county.

Thames Valley Police tweeted pictures of officers equipped with helmets and shields on Springfield Road, and using a battering ram to pound their way inside.

The Force would not confirm if drugs had been seized – but said unspecified 'items' had been confiscated by officers following the raid on Wednesday morning last week.

No arrests were made.

There has been a police crackdown on drugs in recent months as part of TVP's Stronghold campaign which targets organised crime which is generally drug-related.

In recent months there have been raids on addresses in Blackbird Leys, Banbury and Abingdon.

Trial for coaches dropping off

A PARKING warden has been stationed on a major street in Oxford city centre to ensure coaches obey the drop-off rules.

Oxford City Council and Oxfordshire County Council have agreed to fund a four-month trial which will see a civil enforcement officer stationed in the St Giles coach area for eight hours a day.

Tourist coaches are supposed to park at Redbridge Park and Ride after dropping visitors on St Giles, but this system 'does not always work', the councils said.

The officer will enforce collection point rules and collect information, such as arrival times, routes in and out of the city and the operators, as the two councils figure out a long-term solution for tourist coach parking.

Tim Sadler, executive director for Sustainable City, said the authorities wanted to ensure tourism did not damage Oxford.

The civil enforcement officer is being stationed on St Giles between 10am and 6pm each day.

Ice hockey player gets big break

Doctors came to see x-rays of injured hand 'hanging by a thread'

By George Welch

AN Oxford City Stars player needed more than an ice pack after breaking his wrist so badly that his hand and arm were connected by a single bone.

Jason Ikin's left hand was left hanging by a thread after trying to sidestep an opponent who was hurtling towards him.

The university student's wrist got caught between his hockey stick and the other player's body and he was left with multiple fractures, snapped ligaments and tendons and damage to his nerves.

Despite the extent of his injuries, Mr Ikin, who is currently having physiotherapy, says he cannot wait to get back on the ice later this year.

The 20-year-old, who started playing ice hockey in 2005, said: "On the day of the accident, I passed to a line mate and saw that an opposition player was coming towards me.

"I went to sidestep him but my wrist got caught between my opponent's body and my hockey stick.

"I felt my wrist break and immediately put my hand to it but there was so much adrenaline because the sport is so fast paced and it kicked in so I didn't really feel any pain until I got to the emergency department.

Ouch: Jason Ikin hopes to be back on the ice later this year after his horrific hand injury heals with the help of physiotherapy

"My first thought when I fell was 'can I keep playing?' I just wanted to keep playing but I was taken off the ice and my wrist was stabilised in hospital."

Mr Ikin underwent a four-and-a-half hour operation in which surgeons put in screws, pins and wires to repair his wrist.

The operation left the sportsman with 'too many stitches too count', a four inch scar on the top of his wrist, and a three inch scar on the bottom.

He spent eight days in hospital following the accident, which happened in a match against Kent side Invicta Mustangs in February.

Mr Ikin, who needs another six months to recover, added: "A lot of my team-mates think it's pretty cool. You don't normally see an injury like this so a lot of doctors came to see me while I was in hospital and have a look at the x-rays."

Motorcycle crash

TWO specialist police officers tasked with guarding nuclear sites were injured in a crash.

Police said the vehicle the officers were driving was in a collision with a motorbike at around 3.30pm on Saturday last week on the A417 at Rowstock, near Didcot.

The rider of the motorcycle, a man in his 40s, was taken to hospital with serious but non-life threatening injuries and the officers received minor injuries.

The unnamed officers work for the Civil Nuclear Constabulary, a specialist armed police service dedicated to protecting the civil nuclear industry.

The CNC, which protects 14 civil nuclear sites, safeguards nuclear material in transit and plays a key role in national security.

Good enough to eat!

By George Welch

THESE stunning pictures caught by Oxfordshire-based photographers featured among a catalogue of the world's best food photos.

Watlington-based Mark Lord and Thame's Deb Porter were both highly commended for their submissions in the Food Photographer of the Year 2018 competition.

Mark's striking image of a cow taking a moment away from her breakfast on a frosty morning in the Chiltern Hills was praised in the food in the field category.

Explaining the photograph, he said: "The English Longhorn is one of our oldest breeds and they are highly regarded for their meat."

"This organically reared, pasture fed longhorn cow takes a moment from her breakfast to observe the intruder in her midst on this frosty morning in the Chiltern Hills."

Andy Macdonald, from Pink Lady, a sponsor of the awards, said: "The competition was fierce. There were 8,000 images entered from 60 countries and the standard was exceptional."

"Mark's shot stood out from the rest, however, for the way in which he made the subject matter so striking and distinctive."

Deb also impressed in the Marks & Spencer food adventures category for her Meat Feast image and in the food

Thousands enjoy classic cars

By Owen Hughes

CLASSIC cars packed out the former RAF Bicester welcoming a record number of visitors to the Sunday Scramble last month.

More than 6,000 enthusiasts visited the second Sunday Scramble of the year with more than 1,000 historic classic cars on show on April 22.

The hub for motoring excellence, Bicester Heritage, unlocked the doors to the public at the former World War II RAF Bomber Training Station.

Vehicles ranging from veteran and vintage cars up to 2017 and 2010 Formula One race cars were on display.

Nick English, co-founder of the official timing partner Bremont, flew in for the event in his 1950s Broussard.

Bicester Heritage managing director Dan Geoghegan said: "Sunday's Scramble was the best yet – a fitting milestone for Bicester Heritage's fifth anniversary.

"Not only were we able to welcome over 6,000 enthusiasts and more than 1,000 classic vehicles on Drive It Day, but also the latest new specialists and partners.

"Above all else, the atmosphere was both laid back and inclusive; thank you to all who joined us."

The next Bicester Heritage Sunday Scramble will take place on October 7.

Criminal record checks problem blamed on IT

AN IT issue has been blamed for 'inaccurate' record checks at an Oxfordshire authority.

Oxfordshire County Council failed to properly document criminal record checks on its staff, according to an official audit published last week.

In the cases scrutinised, 67 per cent of staff did not have up-to-date Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) checks.

The audit, carried out in February, said the three-yearly DBS checks had not been routinely undertaken by all managers and blamed a fault in the IT system that failed on a 'very ad-hoc basis'. As a result of the 'significant inaccuracies', the council was "unable to effectively monitor whether staff have up-to-date DBS checks or not," the report added.

The council said its human resources team was now checking all records and that 'robust systems' are now in place to check the criminal records of all new employees.

An OCC spokesperson stressed that all relevant staff continue to be given the correct checks and the problem related to record-keeping processes.

They added: "As soon as the issue with the recording system was identified we worked hard to resolve it. The system fault has been fixed and regular checks are being carried out to ensure data is now being uploaded properly to employee records."

Sponsorship deal: Thame Players chairman Pat Shepherd and Rectorly Homes founder and chief executive Simon Vickers

Developer plays role in am dram future

A SOUTH Oxfordshire amateur theatre group has received another funding boost after a developer renewed its sponsorship for a fourth year.

Thame Players, also a charity, has been staging high-quality productions for almost 75 years.

Haddenham-based developers Rectorly Homes has sponsored the group, run by volunteers, for the last three years and the latest funding of £10,000 will focus on two areas of improvement.

One will help improve the Nelson Street theatre, based at a former church hall, by installing a new internal acoustic door, redesigning the theatre frontage and enhancing the side access.

The other strand relates to creative development and enriching productions through special effects, lighting and hiring of costumes.

Thame Players chairman Pat Shepherd said: "Rectorly's support, advice and encouragement are tremendously valued and, by sponsoring Thame Players, they are also contributing to the diversity of arts and entertainment in Thame."

Simon Vickers, founder and chief executive of Rectorly Homes, described Thame Players as 'a gem of an asset' to the town.

Inspectors shocked by rise in animal cruelty

By George Welch

ANIMAL health inspectors investigate almost four new cruelty cases a day as new figures reveal the level of animal cruelty has risen in Oxfordshire.

Shocking figures released by the RSPCA last week show the charity received 1,326 complaints in 2017, up from 1,299 the previous year.

Cases brought to justice by the animal charity in the county last year included a man and a woman who were disqualified from keeping dogs for 10 years after their dog was left to starve in a squalid outhouse.

Barney Bloom and his partner Jemma Bloom, of Hudson Street, Bicester, were sentenced to 12 weeks in custody and eight weeks suspended for a year respectively for their treatment of Hooch.

Inspector Lauren Bailey said: "When I first saw Hooch he was at the police station and I was moved by how loving he was.

"He was so skinny, dirty, and neglected but had so much time for everyone he met.

"It was heartbreaking to see a dog that had not been shown any love himself still offer love unconditionally to others.

"He had sadly been left without Neglected: Hooch's owners were prosecuted after he was left to starve food and water in a dirty outhouse. He was very underweight with all his ribs showing.

"The neglect he experienced could have been easily avoided but he was simply left to suffer without the care he needed and deserved."

Other cases of cruelty in Oxfordshire included a hamster that was found covered in cigarette burns with stones stuffed in his mouth in Witney and a dead terrier who was dumped in a bag in Banbury.

In Oxford, a cat had to have his leg amputated after being found hanging from a 15ft tree with a trap attached to his leg.

Rob Hartley, chief inspector for Oxford, said: "It is shocking to see the cruelty suffered by animals at the hands of heartless people with no care for the welfare of animals.

"While it is saddening to think there are so many animals in need of our help we are very grateful to everyone who takes the time to raise concerns."

Nationally, the RSPCA investigated 141,760 complaints last year.

Dodo shot in head

THE world's most famous example of an extinct bird was shot in the head, research has found.

Forensic analysis of its skull found lead shot pellets, suggesting the Oxford Dodo was shot in the neck and back of the head with a shotgun.

The most complete remains of a dodo – a head and a foot – are held at the Oxford University Museum of Natural History.

Humanist archive

A PILOT scheme in Oxford for an archive of tributes to deceased humanists has proved so successful the scheme has been rolled out nationwide.

The project, piloted by Oxfordshire Humanist Funeral Celebrant Ian Willox, immortalised the life stories of Humanist UK members.

Mr Willox said: "It's the ordinary life stories that are often lost and forgotten in time, but they are probably the most important element of the archive."

Uni loses to rivals

OXFORD has been beaten to the top of a prestigious UK universities league table by arch rival Cambridge – for the eighth consecutive year.

The Complete University Guide 2019, one of a number of well-regarded league tables, has not ranked Oxford as the best since 2011.

Oxford was deemed the country's best university last year by The Times Higher Education ranking.

Charity of the year 2018 – Helen & Douglas House

Polo tournament raises funds to give thanks for amazing support

By George Welch

FUNDRAISERS were chomping at the bit to support Helen & Douglas House at a spectacular polo tournament.

Adam Walter, 26, from Northampton raised more than £1,000 for the hospice care charity in memory of his sister Charlotte at a special tournament fundraiser.

Mallets crossed in The Charlotte Trophy on February 3 at the Dallas Burston Polo Club in Southam Warwickshire, where Adam works, sponsored by the Walter family.

A ticketed afternoon tea VIP package and a raffle raised £507, adding to a donation of £500 from IXL Events to bring the total to £1,007.

Helen & Douglas House cared for Adam's sister Charlotte, known as Charlie, who had severe muscle wasting disease Spinal Muscular Atrophy (SMA), from the age of four.

Charlotte was 18 when she passed away in 2013. Her family were supported by Helen & Douglas House with bereavement counselling after she died.

Adam said: "My sister was so brave and persistent. My family were all so excited to be able to be a part of celebrating the life of my sister and recognise that Helen & Douglas House was a big part of our family.

"IXL Events, my employers, have also noticed how much the charity means to me as an employee.

"Helen & Douglas House has given amazing support to our family including respite care for my sister and our family.

"My sister used to live by the motto 'until I try, I'll never know' – she managed to try as much as she could with the help and the hope that Helen & Douglas House provided."

Staying at the hospice allowed Charlotte to make new friends and helped her embrace life rather than shy away and helped the family stay together.

Adam added: "Helen & Douglas House meant so much to her and that is where she demanded to go in her last weeks."

Adam and Dallas Burston Polo Club are hoping to make The Charlotte

Fundraiser: Operations director at the club Major Richard Carney, Fred, Sue and Adam Walter and Suzanne Carney at Dallas Burston Polo Club and inset, Charlotte

Trophy an annual event.

Two flee severely fire-damaged house

QUICK-THINKING residents escaped serious injury after the entire first floor of a Banbury home was 'severely' damaged by fire.

Fire crews arrived at the Hearthway property shortly before 7pm on Wednesday last week to find the two occupants had already evacuated and were stood on the pavement.

Smoke alarms on the landing alerted the pair and they quickly fled to safety.

Firefighters found the entire first floor completely smoke logged and a fire in one of the bedrooms.

Crews from Banbury and Hook Norton fire stations quickly extinguished the blaze.

A high-pressure fan was needed to blow all of the smoke out of the smoke-logged building.

Paramedics from South Central Ambulance Service were also called but the two occupants were unharmed.

Specialist fire officers are investigating the cause.

A fire service spokesperson said: "Thankfully the occupiers of this property were alerted by working smoke alarms and were able to vacate the property in good time.

"Unfortunately the doors were left open and that is why the entire first floor has been severely affected by the smoke and flames."

He added: "I would like to advise everyone to formulate an emergency plan, considering the actions that they will take if they are unfortunate enough to suffer a fire in their home."

Shortlisted for support given to amputees

A PAIR of talented student nurses have been nominated for the UK's most prestigious nursing accolade.

Oxford Brookes University duo Raluca Vagner and Pedro Faria Simas are finalists in the Andrew Parker Student Nurse section of the 2018 RCNi Nurse Awards.

They were shortlisted for providing non-trauma amputees with emotional support – on top of their existing medical degree workload.

The awards recognise those who, every day, go above and beyond to save lives, provide outstanding care for patients and/or transform nursing practice for the better.

RCNi managing director

Award nomination: Student nurses Pedro Faria Simas and Raluca Vagner

Rachel Armitage said Raluca and Pedro were voted for as finalists by judges due to "the impact they have had on information and support access of amputees."

She added: "With the nursing shortage high on the national agenda, it's important that we give nurses like Raluca and Pedro the recognition they deserve, and we look forward to celebrating their work at the awards in July."

The hunt for Britain's nursing heroes started in December 2017, led by Good Morning Britain presenter Kate Garraway, and will culminate in an awards ceremony on July 4 in London.

Out About

A whole lotta shakin' set to go on

By Josh Cox

RECOGNISED worldwide as the birthplace of rock 'n' roll, Sun Records in Memphis, Tennessee, is famed for discovering the pioneers, namely Elvis Presley, Jerry Lee Lewis, Johnny Cash and Roy Orbison.

The story of Sun Records has been the subject of TV documentaries, books and even stage shows. However, the only way to capture the ground breaking music that emanated from the famed recording studio is with a live concert dedicated to the artists who helped put it on the map.

Officially endorsed and licensed by the Sun Records Corporation, the brand-new Sun Records Concert Show has embarked on a UK-wide tour and is coming to The New Theatre in Oxford on July 14.

"During the Fifties, the trailblazing Sun studio created the songs that became the template of rock 'n' roll," says producer of the show, Pete Tobit.

He said: "That's Alright Mama, Great Balls of Fire, I Walk the Line, Whole Lotta Shakin', Blue Suede Shoes and Good Rockin' Tonight were all original Sun recordings."

"Musical visionary Sam Phillips crafted the distinctive sound we know and love today from gospel, blues, hillbilly, country, boogie and western swing.

"The Sun Records Concert Show takes the audience right inside the studio where the magic happened and lets the music do the talking."

The fast-moving production has been rehearsed in an exact replica of the Sun Recording studios. It features the original musical instruments of the era and alongside a youthful cast of consummate musicians.

John Singleton, president of the Sun Entertainment Corporation said: "From the record label that invented rock 'n' roll, The Sun Records Concert Show is the only production officially endorsed by Sun Records."

"Sam Phillips' recorded the 'perfect imperfection' of music. . .

how songs were meant to sound live on stage. The Sun Records Concert Show captures that perfect imperfection perfectly – in a two-hour spectacular that'll leave you calling out for more!"

Ticket prices start from £22 and are available from the box office on 0844 871 3020 or by visiting atgtickets.com.

Beautiful story of Carole's life

By Samantha McGregor

AWARD-WINNING show Beautiful, the musical telling the life story of Carole King, stops off in Oxford next month as part of its UK tour.

The show opens its doors at the New Theatre from May 8 to 12.

Brontë Barbé, who was a finalist in Andrew Lloyd Webber's BBC1 television series Over The Rainbow in 2010, plays the lead role of Carole King.

The musical tells the story of King's remarkable rise to stardom, from being part of a hit song-writing team with her husband Gerry Goffin played by Kane Oliver Parry, her relationship with fellow writers to becoming one of the most successful solo acts in popular music history.

Along the way, she wrote one of the best-selling albums of all time, Tapestry, as well as countless classics such as (You Make Me Feel Like) A Natural Woman, Take Good Care of My Baby, You've Got a Friend, So Far Away, It Might as Well Rain Until September, Up on the Roof and The Locomotion.

Ahead of the show Brontë took time out to chat about what she was enjoying most about playing Carole King.

She said: "The songs. The music is amazing; it's just the best."

"I haven't played a part like this in my career so far."

"I also love how everyone in the company on tour with us is so nice; it's a big family feel, which is lovely."

Brontë bought Tapestry when she was younger after a recommendation from her mum, but it was only when she became involved with the show that she realised just how many tunes had been penned by King.

Less familiar to many is King's life story.

Brontë says the story is perfect for the stage because it's "so relatable".

She said: "Everybody knows a Carole essentially, or is a Carole maybe and wants things she wanted – like to have a family and be successful in her career."

"She never set out to become famous but her talent and ambition meant that whilst she might be quite ordinary in some ways, she has an extraordinary story. There's a big draw to it."

"This is absolutely a dream role, being able to play Carole King every night and sing her songs."

Tickets available from the New Theatre box office in George Street, call 0844 871 3020 or view atgtickets.com/oxford

Planet land in Oxford

SYDNEY-based quartet PLANET are set to perform in Oxford as part of their international UK and European tour.

The band have recently completed their colourful new video for single Save. Sold and are due to release their forthcoming EP early this month.

They will take to the stage at Oxford's O2 Academy on May 10, alongside DMA.

PLANET is the culmination of several years' trial and error in songcraft, performance and production.

Made up of Matty Took, vocals and rhythm, Tom Peppitt on lead guitar, Harrison Stewart-Weeks on drums and Jimmy Weaver on bass, the band draw influences from past and present combining pop laden guitar hooks with soaring vocal melodies to create a sound which is reminiscent of Britpop.

Asked what fans can expect from the gig, Tom said: "They can definitely expect something different to lying down in bed at home and chucking the songs on through the speakers."

"It's important to refine your live sound separately to the sound on the records, if we didn't do that then what would be the point in going to see live music."

"We've never actually travelled overseas at all as a band, this will be our first trip and we're definitely buzzing for it."

"It's also my first time over there so I'm ticking two boxes on this one."

Ancient music in the Abbey

Main picture: Patrick Harrison
Inset picture: Simon Fowler

OXFORDSHIRE'S Dorchester Abbey will light up as the world renowned Academy of Ancient Music (AAM) gives a special concert with the acclaimed violinist Nicola Benedetti.

Marking the 250th anniversary of Telemann's death, the orchestra welcomes Benedetti, pictured, who joins musical director Richard Egarr and AAM for the first time on May 30.

Nicola will cover Telemann's Frogs concerto, where the violins and violas imitate a chorus of croaking amphibians, and Vivaldi's sizzling Il Grosso Mogul where solo and orchestral parts mesh together in a feast of virtuosity.

Benedetti will be playing her violin with gut strings as she has described them as having a more 'human' sound than that offered by their modern counterparts.

The concert will also feature Telemann's Concerto for Four Violins, where soloists from AAM join Nicola.

The AAM's recently appointed new leader, Bojan Čičić is honoured to be given the post.

He said: "Over the past five years in which I have worked as a principal player, the orchestra has become very much like a family."

"I believe we have formed friendships that will last a lifetime and I look forward to giving my utmost to continue making the best possible music for AAM's global audience."

Bojan is known for his intelligent and virtuosic playing on both the violin and viola d'amore. He specialises in symphonies ranging from the late 16th century to the Romantic period.

Čičić has a wealth of experience and has also been a director of the European Union Baroque Orchestra and a guest leader and soloist with the Orchestra of the Eighteenth Century.

The AAM is a period-instrument orchestra from Cambridge, which was founded in 1973 with 2018 being their 45th anniversary.

The concert begins at 7.30pm. Admission prices start from £18. To book, either call 01865 340007 or head to chilternarts.com

The doctor will see you now

A new dark comic show will be landing at the Cornerstone in Didcot this month.

Freely adapted from the works of Mikhail Bulgakov and enthused by elements of German Expressionism, The Country Doctor tells a gripping story through heightened poses, precise choreography and experimental music.

Fleeing the shame of his failure at a medical school in Moscow, a young man escapes to the cold isolation of the Russian countryside.

There, he happens upon a lonely medical surgery. A peculiar cohort of nurses and surgeons take him in to be their new head doctor; a position he freely embraces despite his lack of qualifications.

How long will he survive in the country before his failure in the city catches up with him?

The show is complete with eccentric make-up, props, song, dance, live music and high theatricality.

Brought to the Cornerstone by emerging Noctium Theatre, a Coventry based theatre company formed in 2013 by graduates of Coventry University.

The performance will take place on Friday 11 May at 7.30pm. Tickets start from £5.

To book, head to cornerstone.arts.org or call the box office on 01235 515144.

The show carries an age guidance of 14 years and over as it contains strong language and content.

Bloodline Wills

Does this sound familiar to you?

"We've made our Wills, leaving everything to each other first and then to the children."

These are known as Mirror Wills. Sounds reassuring enough, doesn't it? But your children could end up with very little - or even nothing at all.

Dear Reader,

Where children's inheritance is concerned our clients want certainty. They want to know that their children will one day benefit from all their years of hard work. They usually come to us having already made standard Mirror Wills with another firm. But often doubts remain in their mind.

Modern family life has many twists and turns and clients worry that having left their estate directly to their children in their Will, what would happen if their son had relationship difficulties or their daughter had creditors pressing. Would their inheritance be taken away from them?

April King Legal are specialists in new style Bloodline Wills. Our free information pack shows you how we can update your Will to include bloodline protection for your children and grandchildren.

*Kindest
Paul King*

- ✓ Making a Will for the first time.
- ✓ How to include or exclude step-children / step-grandchildren.

DID YOU KNOW...

"If you have a child who has separated but is yet to divorce then their ex is still next in line to inherit from them over and above your grandchildren from that marriage. Should your son or daughter inherit from you before their divorce is finalized then they could end up having to share that inheritance with their estranged spouse. April King's free information pack shows you ways to help prevent this happening and keep inheritance in the family bloodline."

Being a Host Family is a GREAT thing to do

At Bright World our Host families are as happy as our students and their parents

More international students join independent boarding schools in the UK year on year and Oxford remains one of the most sought after destinations. Bright World has offered guardianship to students across the UK since 2000 and is fully AEGIS accredited which means our safeguarding standards are of a high level and constantly being monitored. Finding host families for our students is an important part of our job and with the increase in demand we need more in Oxford.

Finding Hosts with the Most

Having made the long journey from their home country, international students often only go back home during the long holidays. This means that when their boarding houses close for short weekends and half term weeks, our students need somewhere to stay. These bright, brave and talented children have had to cope with leaving their families to embark on the challenge of a lifetime and so when their holidays come they really need to feel comfortable and yearn for a host family who will take them in and offer them a true home from home.

A win-win situation for all

Not only do our host families get a huge amount of satisfaction from seeing their student settle down and feel comfortable in their homes, they find the experience very good for their own children. Of course, although money is not the first incentive for our host families, they do benefit from a nightly rate and therefore it does create a valuable extra income for all the family. To find out more about becoming a host family for Bright World please email lindsay@brightworld.co.uk

GIVING THE BANK OF MUM AND DAD A BOOST WITH EQUITY RELEASE

In today's expensive property market your home could help put your children on the property ladder

The first steps onto the property ladder can be a daunting challenge. With house prices continuing to increase, that first property can appear further away than ever for the UK's would-be first-time buyers¹. This has seen an increasing turn towards the "Bank of Mum and Dad", for financial support. Recent research indicates that the average amount lent to children by their parents for support in the property market is over £18,000, although a significant number – 41pc – cannot offer this financial support².

For over-55 UK homeowners there is a way to use the value of your property to give the "Bank of Mum and Dad" a timely financial boost. The home that you have been responsibly investing in for years could turn out to be your secret later life cash reserve. A lifetime mortgage, the most popular way of releasing equity, could allow you to access your property wealth in a way that is convenient, flexible, and secure. With the equity released you could then give your nearest and dearest the leg-up onto the property ladder they may need.

There are a range of lifetime mortgage options available to suit your circumstances. A drawdown lifetime mortgage would give you an immediate tax-free cash lump sum, which could be gifted to your children as a contribution towards a house deposit. The remainder of the equity you have released is then kept in an interest free reserve, ready for when you need it. This option can help mitigate the build-up of interest.

By choosing a lifetime mortgage provided by an Equity Release Council approved lender, you can take comfort in several important guarantees. You and your partner retain full ownership of your property for the duration of your lives, or until you enter fulltime care. A no negative equity guarantee also means that you will never owe more than the value of your home at the end of the plan.

With more than 80 bespoke plans available, why not see if your home could be the secret to helping your family achieve its dreams today?

The money you have access to with a lifetime mortgage is yours to spend entirely as you wish. Why not find out today if your house could help boost the "Bank of Mum and Dad", and give your children an invaluable step-up onto the property market?

¹ The Guardian, 'House prices rise 5% a year in more bad news for would-be buyers', 17/10/17

² Financial Reporter, 'Bank of Mum and Dad lending £18,000 on average', 20/10/17

What do the 'political tea leaves' indicate?

Bill Cooper, co-author of The Oxford Property Blog and managing director of Martin and Co, Oxford

There's a growing belief the Conservatives are just one electoral jolt away from hijacking some of Labour's rental sector policies in a bid to woo younger voters. With reports last week of 16m UK citizens renting over the coming years, it is clear tenants will become an increasingly powerful electoral force.

Just last week the editorial in the right-wing political magazine The Spectator, advocated that the Tories steal Labour's policies on rent caps and longer tenancies - or risk losing the next general election.

If the Conservatives do badly in next Thursday's local elections, the increasingly common view is that the party should become more pro-tenant and by implication more anti-landlord.

So, if the Conservatives lose local council seats in London, will they start demanding policies to win back disillusioned young voters in time for a General Election in 2022? And will they start with the disillusioned young people who feel that they have been forced to rent by unaffordable house prices, mortgage lender demands for large unattainable deposits and by the burden of student debt repayments.

So, what might these further reforms target?

They could introduce rent caps aligned to local salaries. They could make 24 or even 36-month tenancies standard. They could give further planning advantages to Build to Rent. They could further raise stamp duty and capital gains tax on second homes. And, they could clampdown on incorporated landlords.

Will such reforms benefit the rental market?

In the main, no. Any easing of planning restriction to create new rental properties is to be welcomed, but the reality is that there is already insufficient available properties for rent, and anything that discourages private or incorporated landlords from investing in new property is likely to exacerbate the supply crisis. Further constraint on supply will perversely drive-up rents, causing further demands and pressure for rent caps to keep renting affordable.

Unfortunately, the reforms being demanded by the Labour party and increasingly stolen and rebranded by the Conservative party are not conceived as a rational well thought out response to a difficult market situation, they are purely aiming to be popular with lots of young voters. To hell with solving the problem, let's just do what's popular!

So, what should landlords do?

Those with properties should hold-on to their valuable assets - they are the lucky ones. Further changes to the tax system are unlikely to be sufficiently significant to undermine the returns and value of their assets. Those wanting to expand their portfolios should probably get in quick - it seems unlikely that barriers such as the stamp duty surcharge will be repealed and more likely that they will become tougher. Those with a longer-term plan? - it is probably a wait and see and compare the returns from buy to let to other investments at the time.

I think all buy to let investors though need to consider the wider investment climate, and the potential volatility of alternative investments. Oxford's Global profile as a centre for learning, a beautiful historic city and a vibrant knowledge-based economy will create stability of demand for accommodation. As the plans to join together Oxford and Cambridge materialise, housing supply will increase progressively over the coming 10 to 15 years. Until then, demand for good quality private rented properties will continue to grow. So landlords, keep calm & carry-on investing, but keep an eye on the politicians, they don't have your best interests at heart!

Dacia Sandero 'Ambiance' TCe 90

You're not mad to want one of these!

By Tony Yates

Say the words 'I'm going to go out and buy a Dacia Sandero' any louder than a whisper and people from all corners of the globe will suddenly look at you like you are stark raving mad! Well, I'm here today to tell you that you are not any of those things; in fact, I'm here to tell you that the Dacia Sandero is a car that has been built to do the best it can for very little money.

Power & efficiency

The Sandero I had on test was powered by a 3 cylinder 898cc - 5-speed turbocharged petrol engine that has 90HP and a respectable top speed of around 109mph, plus a 0-62 time of 11.1 seconds - which in my book is not bad for a 3 cylinder engine that's basically built for economy and not speed. Fuel consumption is also very good with a combined figure of 57.6 mpg. Also, the Sandero is actually a pretty good car for very little money. Yes, it's not hot hatch fast, but then again, it's not supposed to be. Plus, you have to remember that the Sandero costs under £9,000 in basic form meaning it really is the bargain of the century.

On the road

It's a little soft, but into the corners, it feels OK. I was actually amazed how well it did perform when you look again at it's under £9,000 price tag. As for that 3-cylinder petrol engine, it plods away without grumbling that much at all. Yes, it only has 90HP, but it actually does a pretty good job of moving along in what I would call a 'leisurely pace'.

Another plus point for the Sandero is that it has a decent amount of torque - in fact, 140Nm of it - which allows it to pull very well from pretty much any gear as long as you remember what I said earlier, that in my opinion - its built for economy and not speed.

I must also point out that I actually liked driving it, which surprised me, as I'm not used to driving cars with less than 100HP for the morning school run, or for taking all my friends to football training on a Saturday morning - which actually, it did a pretty good job of considering it was loaded with five huge men and all their football kit.

Design & technology

On the inside, the interior is 'basic', and some of the interior plastics do look and feel 'cheap and scratchy'. But then again, it's not the end of the world. Although I would have preferred it if Dacia had spent a few quid more on the interior feel - which in the end would have helped it feel a little less 'basic'. But, its functional I suppose, and at such a low price, I'm willing to accept it.

Standard equipment in 'Ambiance' trim includes; body-coloured bumpers, satin chrome central console surround and instrument surrounds, 3 height-adjustable rear headrests, anti-intruder automatic door-locking system, remote central locking, eco mode, stop/start, manual air conditioning, electric front windows, DAB/FM/AM tuner with fingertip control and 4 speakers, Bluetooth connectivity, AUX input & USB connection.

To sum up:

I'm going to give the Sandero four stars in this test, not only because I like how it drives, but also because I like the price tag.

THROUGH THE IMPOSSIBLE WE FIND POSSIBILITIES

LIKE THE PRICE, NOW IMPOSSIBLY GOOD

At Honda, we love to rise to a challenge. When somebody said buying a new car will always be expensive, we wanted to prove them wrong. That's why the new Jazz only costs from £199 a month, and why it comes with 5.9% APR Representative, a £1,000 Deposit Contribution and 5 years' servicing for just £599. Now it's impossible to find a reason not to at least take it for a spin.

Test it out for yourself.

Points at last in a crazy race

By George Welch

F1 - Williams

THE Azerbaijan GP was a 'missed opportunity' for Williams despite the strugglers recording their first points of the Formula 1 season, according to chief technical officer Paddy Lowe.

Lance Stroll managed to keep his car in one piece during Sunday's chaotic race to finish in eighth place for the Grove side's first three points of a challenging campaign.

However, team-mate Sergey Sirotkin ran into the back of Sergio Perez's Force India at turn two on the opening lap and retired.

It made for a mixed afternoon for Williams in a race which had seven DNFs.

Lowe said: "As usual, we had a highly eventful afternoon with lots of incidents right to the very end, so it was great to get eighth position with Lance."

"I'm happy in one way but disappointed in another, because I think there were many more points possible for us today."

"It was a great drive by Lance all weekend. He kept the car in one piece which is one of the key things at this circuit."

"It is great to get our first points on

Eventful afternoon: Lance Stroll leads a crowded pack in Baku
Picture: Williams Martini Racing

the board this season and we need to keep this momentum going."

Stroll, whose rookie season peaked with a third place finish in Baku last year, was happy after a 'crazy' race.

"It was a crazy race. So much happened," the Canadian said.

"I am pretty happy with the race, there were perhaps one or two more positions if we did everything perfectly, but no one had a perfect race."

"I am happy with P8 and it was a good race for the team. We can't assume this pace will carry on to Barcelona, we have to understand our issues and keep working but that is just what we are doing."

Williams are finally off the mark for the season but have already received a blow ahead of the Spanish GP on May 13.

Sirotkin will serve a three-place grid penalty after being found 'wholly responsible' for colliding with Perez.

Lewis Hamilton won the race, benefiting from a Sebastian Vettel mistake, a collision between the two Red Bulls and a puncture for team-mate Valtteri Bottas

Switch error proves costly for embarrassed Grosjean

F1 - Haas

IT is not often you see a driver crash out of a race under safety car conditions, but that is exactly how a slightly embarrassed Romain Grosjean bowed out of the hectic Azerbaijan GP.

Grosjean suffered the bizarre elimination while attempting to keep his tyres warm during the latter stages of the race, losing the rear of his car and finding himself in the barriers.

Until that incident, the Frenchman was running in P6 for Banbury-based Haas – an impressive showing given he started the chaotic race at the very back of the grid.

The mistake has been put down to accidental 'switch bump'.

Grosjean said: "This hurts a lot and I want to apologise to the team."

"We were in the middle of an amazing race, starting last and running P6."

"Seeing [Sergio] Perez on the podium, knowing I was fighting with him, is very painful for all of us."

He added: "I was warming up my tyres and bumped into a switch that I'd moved by two positions."

"When I touched the brakes, the brake balance was locked rearward – it just locked the rear wheels and I spun."

Team-mate Kevin Magnussen finished 13th.

Carlos Sainz finished fifth for Enstone-based Renault, but Nico Hulkenberg was unable to make it four points-scoring finishes in a row after crashing into the wall on lap 12.

Tricky trip: Romain Grosjean enjoys the scenery before ploughing into a wall while the safety car was out. Picture: Haas F1

Nil points in Paris at end of challenging day for Jaguar

Formula E

IT was a weekend to forget for Jaguar at the Paris E-Prix after leaving the French capital pointless for the first time this season.

In a challenging weekend for the Grove side, Mitch Evans, who started from the back of the grid following a 10-place penalty and made an early enforced nose change, crossed the line in 15th.

Team-mate Nelson Piquet showed good initial energy management but, following his mandatory car change on lap 25, encountered issues with his seatbelts again and was forced to retire.

The Brazilian said: "No points for the team which is a shame. I made the team's life difficult with two accidents [in practice] and no luck in the race."

"I had seatbelt issues for the second race in a row and had to retire so not a great day all round."

Team director James Barclay added: "It has been a really challenging day for the team but I have to thank everyone for the effort to get both cars on to the grid."

"Nelson's accidents in practice and Mitch's grid penalty really compromised our opportunity for more points."

"We have learnt valuable lessons and now look forward to a fresh start in Berlin."

The next race in Germany is on May 19.

High hopes for Japan success

Super GT

CHIPPING Norton driver Sean Walkinshaw returns to the scene of his maiden Super GT Championship race victory today for the second round of the 2018 season.

The ARTA driver is eyeing GT300 silverware as minimum at Fuji Speedway in Japan during the annual Japanese holidays to celebrate Constitutional Memorial Day and Greenery Day.

Walkinshaw, 24, opened his account during the Okayama curtain-raiser in April with a top-six finish, but the Oxfordshire driver has high hopes of securing a first podium finish in Japan.

He said: "Fuji holds great memories from last year, it's a fantastic track and the ARTA BMW is strong there so I'm really looking forward to this week's race."

"We hoped for a little bit more from Okayama, but at a circuit which doesn't suit the BMW we were all pretty satisfied with a top six start to the season. Going to Fuji, though, we're aiming much higher."

"If we can have a trouble-free couple of days then we've got a strong chance of the podium and a good chance of fighting for the win."

Qualifying begins today with the 500km race taking place tomorrow at Fuji Speedway.

Eddie tees off in GolfSixes

Golf

ABINGDON golfer Eddie Pepperell will star in a golfing tournament with a difference this weekend.

The Frilford Heath member partners Matt Wallace in the England men's team vying to be crowned the second GolfSixes champions.

The tournament features 16 teams of two players from the European and Ladies European Tours competing over a specially created six-hole course at the Centurion Club, St Albans.

The format will be a greensomes matchplay, when both players hit their tee shot, select which ball to use and take alternate shots thereafter.

On day one of the two-day event, players will compete in four groups of four teams.

Each match will be played over all six holes, the winner being the team who wins the most holes. A win earns three points while a draw gets one.

After three group matches, the top two teams qualify for the knockout rounds on day two.

This is when the action heats up with four knockout rounds culminating in the all-important final and €200,000 cash prize. On Sunday, any tied matches go to a specially constructed play-off hole.

Pepperell claimed his maiden Tour title in the Commercial Bank Qatar Masters, while Wallace triumphed in the Hero Indian Open.

Pepperell and Wallace are in Group D with South Africa, Sweden and England Women.

The competition aims to modernise the sport and make it more accessible.

Diddy in search of play-off final

By George Welch

Evo-Stik round-up

DIDCOT Town faced a huge game last night as they battled it out with Wimborne Town for a place in the Evo-Stik South West play-off final.

The winners take on the victors of Evesham United's clash with Swindon Supermarine, which also took place after we went to press last night, on bank holiday Monday.

The Railwaymen edged into the play-offs on goal difference thanks to a must-win 3-0 victory over Paulton Rovers on Saturday.

Diddy were the away side against Wimborne as they finished lower in the division. Should they win, they will have to play away again in the final because they occupied the last play-off spot.

Town have flirted with the play-offs for most of the season, and they finally cemented their top-six berth on a tense final day at home to Paulton.

Didcot goalkeeper Leigh Bedwell tipped over a long-range effort in a cagey first half with few efforts.

We've done it: Felipe Barcelos celebrates scoring the second goal and with it a top-six spot. Picture: Roger Neal

The hosts dominated possession and deservedly took the lead on 44 minutes through Callum McNish.

With their play-off rivals all winning, Diddy needed to hold on to their lead. The Railwaymen secured their top-six spot in the last minute when Felipe Barcelos powered home.

Sam Barder put the icing on the cake in injury time, tucking the ball under the goalkeeper to spark wild celebrations.

Elsewhere in the West division, goalkeeper Sam Warrell got on the scoresheet as Kidlington ended their season in fine style with an emphatic 5-0 victory at Shortwood United on Monday.

Warrell surprisingly smashed home a 36th minute penalty as manager Julian McCalmon signed off as manager on a high note.

Lewis Coyle (2), Declan Benjamin and Darius Browne also found the net for the Greens, who won following Saturday's 2-2 draw with Mangotsfield.

Darryll Harris grabbed a late equaliser as North Leigh drew 1-1 at home to Larkhall Athletic, two days before finishing the season with a 3-0 home defeat to Cinderford Town.

In the East division, James McGowan scored Thame United's only goal of the game as they lost 3-1 at home to Kempston Rovers.

Great finish for Puritans but boss wants more points

Banbury United

MIKE Ford was full of praise for his Banbury United players after ending the Evo-Stik Southern League campaign with a point and a clean sheet.

The Puritans played out a goalless draw at Tiverton Town on Saturday.

Leam Howards had a goal ruled out for offside in the first half and Stephane Ngamvoulou fired over from close range late on as United finished ninth.

Despite not winning, boss Ford was delighted with the performance. "We were outstanding, absolutely magnificent," he said.

"When you get a group of players together, that is how you want them to perform every week, irrespective of whether it's a game against a team at the top, bottom or mid-table.

"There was nothing to play for but we found something to play for and that's what drove us on. We deserved to win it."

Reflecting on the ninth place finish, Ford added: "The top teams have got more points than normal because the bottom teams have accumulated so few but to finish ninth with 72 points is an excellent season.

"Only the top five teams have got a better away record than us, scored more goals, or lost less games than us but we have to work out why we haven't finished higher."

Play-off place after impressive Chinnor win

Rugby

CHINNOR rounded off the season with an impressive 52-14 victory over Clifton on Saturday.

The solid win for the second-placed side in National League 2 South means they finish the season on 131 points and will now contest a play-off place with North runners-up Segley Park.

Elsewhere, Henley Hawks end the season in ninth on 73 points despite a 51-0 thrashing at the hands of third place Redingensians Rams.

In the South West 1 East, bottom club Bicester were joined by fellow Oxfordshire side Grove in relegation to the Southern Counties North.

But Grove finally gave their fans something to cheer with a 34-0 win over Old Centralians after a run of eight consecutive defeats.

At the other end of the table, Oxford Harlequins end the season fourth on 76 points, while Banbury's 42-31 play-off defeat against Exeter University means they miss out on promotion to the fifth tier.

In the Berks Bucks & Oxon Premier, a dominant Wheatley sealed victory in their final game of the season beating Tadley 11-10. Already promoted second placed Littlemore ended their two-year unbeaten home record losing 19-17 to champions Slough, while Didcot and relegated Abingdon's seasons ended on April 21 and 14 respectively.

Dominant: Wheatley's Simon Chadbone pushes through Littlemore's defensive line

Young rider canters to title

Showjumping

KIRTLINGTON rider Saskia Mohan has won a leading British show jumping award.

The promising 14-year-old, a member of the Central Junior Academy in Chichester, galloped her way to the NAF Shining Star for April.

Mohan was put forward for the honour by coach Mandy McGlynn, who said: "Saskia is a great team member and has competed in all of the team competitions over the last two years.

"She is always cheerful, a joy to teach and always keen to get involved.

"Last year she was awarded most improved rider at the Central Academy Awards."

After joining British Showjumping in 2016 with her pony, Tiperonic, Saskia has for the past year been concentrating on developing a young pony, Ballyerk Cobalt.

She said: "I am so honoured to have been put forward for this award.

"I never thought that I would win, I am so happy. My big dream is to qualify for the Horse of the Year Show with my youngster."

The NAF Shining Star Award is for junior academy members who have shown a great deal of commitment and progression in the sport.

Riders are nominated by their lead coach, and then judged and awarded by NAF to one person each month.

Businessman ready to take on 'big job' at Sunderland

Football

PROSPECTIVE Sunderland owner Stewart Donald is confident his takeover will be approved, and assures he has the funds to be a success.

The west Oxfordshire businessman, and current Eastleigh chairman, is just awaiting league approval before a consortium he heads up acquires control of the club from Ellis Short.

Donald, an Oxford United fan, has invested in the U's and his company, Bridle Insurance, has sponsored the club's shirts.

He was also involved in Juan Sartori's failed takeover of the club last summer.

Donald's company has sponsored North Leigh and gave the west Oxfordshire club a financial boost when Eastleigh donated the match proceeds from last season's fourth qualifying round.

Former insurance man Donald has put Eastleigh up for sale, as a result of the Sunderland takeover.

He told BBC Radio Solent: "I'm confident I can give Sunderland a competitive budget. It will take a bit of work. I've got the funds required to give that a go.

"Who wouldn't be excited about Sunderland? It's a challenge, I can't say anything about it other than to say that it is a big job.

"I am unbelievably excited about it."

The Sunderland deal is subject to EFL approval after Black Cats chairman Short agreed to sell the club.

Donald will take over a club in turmoil - Sunderland have just been relegated to League One so will face Oxford United next season and are currently without a manager after sacking Chris Coleman.

U's performance spot on after penalties secure positive end

OXFORD United manager Karl Robinson praised his players' calmness after they beat Rochdale 2-1 on Saturday to mathematically secure their League One status.

John Mousinho and Todd Kane converted penalties as the U's came from behind against a side fighting for their lives to finally get over the line with a third victory in the last four games.

United are now up to the 15th, eight points clear of the drop zone with a game to go.

Robinson said: "I think the most important thing is tremendous calmness around the place.

"Me and Faz (Derek Fazackerley, assistant) have seen a lot of things in football and we didn't carried away with the emotion of it.

"We were very calm with our plan and preparation. The players delivered and as did the fans, which is great."

The result was celebrated like a huge win but Oldham failed to beat

Good finish: Todd Kane gives United the lead and secures the three points.

Doncaster Rovers at home, meaning safety was secured even in defeat.

After a sleepy first half the game burst into life on the hour mark.

Brad Inman opened the scoring for the relegation-threatened visitors on 59 minutes with a low shot from 16 yards after cutting inside a defender.

Oxford equalised three minutes later from the penalty spot after Joe Rothwell drove into the box and was brought down by Callum Camps.

Skipper John Mousinho hammered the spot-kick high into the net for his first goal for the club.

Dale remain in peril and started to throw men forward to try and turn one point into three but United were resilient at the back.

And with six minutes to go Camps was again guilty of a mistimed tackle, tripping substitute Rob Hall inside the area.

This time Todd Kane took the penalty and sent Josh Lillis the wrong way as he fired into the bottom-right corner and secured the three points.

Rochdale occupy the final relegation spot and host Charlton Athletic, who still need a point to cement a play-off spot, in Saturday's season finale.

Carefree Oxford meanwhile end the season at Blackburn Rovers, who are still gunning for the League One title.

Basic errors cost victory after a good opening half

OUFCW

LIVID Oxford United Women's boss Andy Cook was left questioning his players' mindsets after they capitulated 'like a house of cards' at Sheffield Ladies.

The U's went into half time on level terms but conceded four times in 16 minutes after the restart to lose 4-1.

Emma Johnson (2), Hannah Cain and Jenna Dear netted for the hosts before Georgia Timms pulled one back for United with three minutes remaining.

Cook was not impressed with his side, who have now lost seven of their last eight games.

He said: "We were right in the game in the first half and then we've had a mad 10-15 minutes in the second half where we've just collapsed - it was a house of cards.

"Every time Sheffield went forward they hit us but for us it's not even tactical things, it's just basic, basic things like blocking shots, working for each other and we made basic errors. It comes down to the individual mindsets.

"We have to get that enjoyment back into it. The players were enjoying things at the start of the season and it's hard to get that back."

The U's are next in action on May 13 when they welcome bottom club Watford Ladies to Court Place Farm.

Good experience ahead of next season

OUFC Youth

OXFORD United's development side enjoyed an excellent 1-1 draw against Premier League side West Bromwich Albion's Under-23 side on Monday.

Fielding a side with three senior players, four youngsters who have been offered a pro deal and four trialists, United took the lead in the first minute.

Albie Hopkins, top scorer in the youth team this season, picked up a rebound after one of the trialists had forced the West Brom keeper in to a smart save.

The youngster showed good composure to fire the ball into the top corner to give United a 1-0 lead inside 60 seconds.

United created more chances but were pegged back when West Brom took advantage of a sloppy back pass to level things, but coach Chris Allen was pleased with his young side.

He said: "It was another really good experience for some of the youngsters and we had the chance to look at the trialists with next season in mind a little bit.

"Obviously scoring in the first minute is a bonus but we did start very brightly and I think the lads should be really pleased with how they played over the entire 90 minutes."

Sam Long, Canice Carroll and Josh Ashby, who leaves at the end of the season, were the seniors involved.

Constable an arresting sight in front of goal

Oxford City

EX-OXFORD United striker James Constable netted against Oxford City as the Hoops suffered final day defeat at Poole Town.

The former U's favourite, who scored more than 100 goals in yellow, netted the opener just after the hour in a must-win game for the hosts.

Steve Devlin also scored in the second half for a 2-0 win over City, who played without any pressure having already secured their National League South status.

However, the win was not enough for the hosts, who were condemned to relegation after Hungerford Town beat East Thurrock United.

A volley from City's Reece Fleet went close early on but the contest was defined by a three-minute spell shortly after the hour mark.

On 61 minutes, Oxford's Rob Sinclair appeared to be tripped in the penalty area after a weaving run through the defence, but was booked for simulation.

And the away side found themselves behind three minutes later when Constable found space on the left and smashed the ball beyond Craig King.

Poole put the game beyond doubt with seven minutes to go as Devlin spotted King off his line and spectacularly lobbed the goalkeeper from 35 yards.

Mark Jones's City finished 16th in the table.

Building a strong new team

By George Welch

KARL Robinson's rebuilding job at Oxford United is under way.

The U's boss announced this week that seven players have been told they can leave when their contracts expire this summer.

United secured their League One status with a 2-1 win at home to Rochdale on Saturday, meaning Robinson's shake-up can begin.

The club held talks with some players before the weekend and discussions took place with others on Monday.

Robinson has now unveiled the fate of those out of contract players.

As expected, United have taken up options to extend the contracts of captain Curtis Nelson and winger Rob Hall, the latter working with the gaffer at MK Dons.

Left back Ricardinho and defender Sam Long have been offered new one-year deals while midfielder Joe Rothwell will also be offered a new contract.

A clause in veteran goalkeeper Scott Shearer's contract has been extended, earning him a new one-year deal.

Both Charlie Raglan and Kane Hemmings, on loan at Port Vale and Mansfield Town respectively, still have time on their contracts and will return to the club this summer.

However, Agon Mehmeti, Wes Thomas, Aaron Martin, Dwight Tiendalli, Mike Williamson, James Roberts and Josh Ashby will all leave the club when their contracts expire at the end of the season.

Gino van Kessel will also depart with United not taking up an option to turn his loan spell into a permanent deal.

Injured midfielder Ivo Pekalski, who has spent a frustrating season in the treatment room, has another year on his contract but has been told he is free to find another club over the summer.

The club have not commented on the futures of loanees Alex Mowatt, Todd Kane, Ashley Smith-Brown and Isaac Buckley-Ricketts.

Robinson, who has his sights set on the play-offs next season, said: "We are delighted to have made offers to the players we want to keep and who we see as part of the rebuilding but obviously there were some difficult decisions to be made and some tough conversations.

"They have worked so hard and I can honestly say that everything was done with respect and done the right way and we wish every one of the players leaving all the best for the future.

"The aim is to build a strong new team for what I am sure will be a very exciting season."
